Introduction

Concerning the studies on the “Entomofauna of the World”, the authors made their first attempt in 2007 (Koçak & Kemal, 2007).¹ On the “Entomofauna of Turkey”, six temporary reports have been published so far.² In the sixth report, totally 11132 pterygot species of Turkey were listed.³ Special reports on Diptera,⁴ Hymenoptera,⁵ and *Coleoptera*⁶ of Turkey have been published by the authors respectively. Thenceforth, numerous new faunal additions, nomenclatural and taxonomical changes were made. In the present revised and expanded list of the Pterygota of Turkey comprises 20417 species, belonging to 5905 genera/subgenera and 1955 family group taxa.

The following quotes by the authors are still up to date and meaningful:

“As in the case of other projects of the Cesa, the Entomofauna of Turkey is an international Project with the reports of the temporary results free to all the readers...

The project Entomofauna of Turkey, without time limitation, is the unique attempt in determining the pterygot fauna of Turkey, based upon the literary data, the collection of the Cesa, as well as the field studies of the authors...

Turkey, our land is placed in the focus of this survey. By doing this, we should search the fauna of not only the neighbour countries [see Appendix, page], but also the continents, namely Eurasia and Africa, as their faunal elements inhabit in various regions of Turkey in various rates...

Final words that we would say are so; our Project are pure scientific; therefore it has no reward...

During the preparations of the Entomofauna programs, we are completely open to all esteemed entomologists interested in our studies. Therefore, we publish openly all the reports concerning our scientific activities, and the results even so they are temporary. We treat these reports very important, as their contents have vast information on the literary data, and the numerous original images of the Cesa Archive. The latter reflects not only the scientific activities of the authors during their field studies, but also the faunal compositions and richness of the country studied.” (Koçak & Kemal, 2009).⁷

“...Finally, this not an ordinary but a planned, long-termed study. If it is needed, the Cesa projects with their published reports should be compared by the readers with the equivalent attempts only.” (Koçak & Kemal, 2010).⁸

In the present catalog, totally 20417 pterygot species of Turkey, belong to 5905 genera/subgenera and 1955 family group taxa are studied. Although the present number is not complete, this survey is considered by us very important and a basic study for Turkey, as it is incomparable among the published works in Turkey. The expected number of the pterygot species based upon the literary data is more than 25000 species.

In the present study, three major lists of the pterygots of Turkey are given.

1- List of the family group names of the Pterygota of Turkey (in two parts Lepidoptera and other pterygot orders);

2- List of the genus group names of the Pterygota of Turkey (in two parts Lepidoptera and other pterygot orders);

3- List of the pterygot species of Turkey (in two parts Lepidoptera and other pterygot orders).

In all lists, valid taxa are arranged alphabetically together with their synonyms. Specific list reflects the present total number recorded in Turkey, based upon the info-system of the Cesa. Number of the species of each province in Turkey is mentioned in Table 1. In this table, well-studied and unstudied provinces are discriminated by green and yellow colours. According to this, best known province is Ankara with the 3483 species. Least known province is Kilis with 47 species.

Table 1 - Number of the pterygot species recorded from the provinces of Turkey. National codes of the provinces are given as 01-81.⁹ Number of the species are mentioned in blue. Comparatively well-studied provinces coloured with green (more than 2000 species). Almost unstudied provinces coloured with yellow (less than 400 species)
